Happy Eid al-Fitr

As we come towards the end of the holy month of Ramadan, on behalf of everyone at Woolmore School, it is time to wish all our Muslim families, colleagues and friends 'Eid Mubarak'.

After family celebrations on Sunday or Monday, and our school Eid holiday on Tuesday, we are looking forward to sharing and celebrating together in school on Wednesday 4th May.

Here is the plan

- In the morning we will have Eid Assemblies
- In the afternoon we will be having Eid parties

Extra information about Eid at Woolmore

- It's an own clothes day!
- The school will provide the food for the party.
- We will take photos of our celebrations and share them on Twitter.
- As is traditional at Woolmore, an Eid gift will be given to each class.
- As part of our RE curriculum we are learning more about the Muslim festival of Eid, what it means and the different ways it is celebrated in our school community and in countries across the world.

DID YOU KNOW?

- Eid al-Fitr, known as the 'Festival of Breaking the Fast' is celebrated amongst Muslims all over the world.
- Eid al-Fitr is known by different names in different languages. It is called Lebaran in Indonesia and Korite in Senegal in West Africa. In Turkey Eid is known as Ramazan Feast or Ramadan Bayrami and in Malaysia it is called Hari Raya.
- Eid means festival in Arabic.
- What else do you know about the festival of Eid al-Fitr?
